Listening Excellence Attitude Respect Negotiate Enjoy Responsible Support

Dear Parents, Governors and Friends,

Day in, day out it is a real privilege for Senior Leaders and Subject Leaders to witness the wide range of learning taking place across the school. During a Governors' visit this week, to find out pupils' views about learning, we heard children explain confidently how they related their work to practical situations in and out of the classroom. We are going to capture a snapshot of what we come across and share this with you through a new feature:

'What .. saw this week in ..'

Jan Bless, Headteacher

What Mr Bless saw this week in EYFS

Nursery children cooking in the Home Corner, cutting playdough cakes in Yellow Class, writing about Jack and the Beanstalk whilst listening to Mozart in Orange Class and a group of friends identifying 2D shapes in Purple Class.

Our Value for this month is Responsibility

The Value of 'Responsibility' links to the British Values of Tolerance and Mutual Respect. The pupils learn about the world's religions, celebrate a variety of religious festivals, and visit different places of worship. The children learn that it is their responsibility to show mutual respect to others. Being 'responsible' is a vital component to other school values i.e. Peace, Unity, Trust, Gratitude, Co-operation, Freedom and Thoughtfulness. Through embedding the British Values of Tolerance and Mutual Respect with 'being responsible', the children are able to take responsibility to identify and combat the different forms of discrimination.

YEAR 6

There are millions of living things on Earth. Scientists call them 'organisms'. But they need a way of telling all the living things apart. To do this they sort them into groups. This is called classification. It is just like the system we use to look for a book in a library. Each book has a number or code to make it easier to find. Year 6 have been exploring the classification process. We have been sorting living creatures into different groups, as well as making classification keys. A classification key is a sort of diagram which asks a series of questions, which can only have two answers, yes or no. We used it to sort different vertebrates (animals which have a backbone and a skeleton inside their body).

3N were chefs for the morning on Tuesday 26th April! They took the bus into Enfield Town and visited Pizza Express where they were taught how to make margarita pizzas. They looked the part, and the children learnt about good food hygiene and about all the ingredients in a pizza. Afterwards they had a pizza picnic in the park. Yum yum!!
