Dear Year 6 pupils,

Next week, similar to all other Year 6s in the country, you will be completing the Key Stage 2 national curriculum tests. The adults and children in the school wish you the very best in completing your SATs. We know that you have all worked very hard in your lessons and we are very proud of your achievements so far. All of you have shown a great commitment to your learning and your year group has already clearly demonstrated just how fantastic you are as outstanding role models for the rest of the school to aspire to.

Mr Bless and Miss Clarke

On Tuesday, a group of Year 4 and 5 pupils visited Lea Valley High School to watch their production of 'School Of Rock'. We enjoyed seeing the fantastic performances and listening to the catchy songs. The visit was made even more special as some former pupils from Prince of Wales were in the production. We hope to see more performances at Lea Valley High in the future.

"Acting isn't about messing around. You need to take it seriously." – Taylor

"I really loved the fact they were enthusiastic and put lots of energy into their performance." – Angelina

"It was inspiring." – Naomi

British Museum

Year 3 went to The British Museum to complete their learning on the Egyptians. We went as a year group and were able to see many of the objects and things we had been learning about this half-term. This included seeing artefacts, mummies, tombs, statues, gold jewellery, hieroglyphics and food.

Overall the year really enjoyed their trip and it gave them the opportunity to see what they had been learning about.

It seems that other students from other countries were also learning about Ancient Egyptians as the museum was very busy.

Kerem - I liked the fascinating artefacts that we have never seen before

Varun - I liked the models of the objects like the bowls

Eylul - I saw things that were thousands of years old.

Yagmur - I liked seeing stuff we have never used before. There were lots of interesting colours used.

Parents' Forum

The next Parents' Forum Café is on Wednesday 12th June at 8:30am. This is a good opportunity for parents to bring up any general issues, make suggestions or ask questions. We won't discuss individual pupils.

Royal Festival hall

On Tuesday year 3 went to the Southbank, near The London Eye, to watch and listen to the London Philharmonic orchestra. The orchestra had put on a series of special concerts to showcase their talents to primary school children in London.

Before we went on the trip Mrs Redmore gave each class an especially adapted music session where the children got to learn about the different sections of the orchestra as well as learning to sing a song that the orchestra was going to perform on the day.

When we got to the Southbank we had our lunch in the park by the London Eye and had a chance to play with other children from different schools who had also come to watch the concert.

Mustafa - I liked the trip because we went into London where my Grandad was.

Keianna - My favourite part of the day was joining in with the actions of the orchestra.

Nazirah - I enjoyed listening to the concert because it is not something I have done before.

Mr Ferns - I thought the concert was interesting and showed the children what impact music can have on your mood. I also enjoyed feeding Peter the squirrel in the park.

Enfield Catering has launched monthly healthy eating events.

Look out for delicious, freshly-made Fruit Forest or Pineapple Blast smoothies made by Michelle and her kitchen team.

Best Book is Alicya in 6B

Her year group has been inspired by the Poem The Lady of Shalott by Tennyson to write from the point of view of the mirror using personification.

She impressed the whole school with the quality of her writing. We liked her suggestion that the mirror was 'a witness' to events set in ancient Camelot.

A magical time awaits at...

Tumblr is a popular social media platform and microblogging site with over 463 million blogs on its platform. In Europe you must be over 16 to sign up, but the age limit is just 13 elsewhere. However, in both cases, age verification is limited. The platform is designed to share different types of content, such as videos, photos or short articles. People can react to each other's content, share items they like, and even interact through the platform with direct messages.

What parents need to know about TUMBLR

WATCH OUT FOR ADULT CONTENT

You can post almost anything on Tumblr, so it's important you're aware of what your child is exposed to. In fact, it was briefly removed from the Apple store when it was found users were sharing illegal content involving the sexual abuse of children. There has since been a ban on being able to share 'adult' material, but some material still slips through the net.

A BROAD SEARCH FUNCTION

The broad search tool on Tumblr makes it very easy for anyone to find almost any kind of content. In fact, an NSPCC investigation found there to be content about eating disorders and self-harm that could be damaging to a young person's mental health. There is no easy way to stop this broad search function, so it pays to educate your child on the risk of searching for such topics.

MISLEADING TAGS / ACRONYMS

The 'tagging' function on Tumblr allows users to label relevant content and makes searching more effective. However, such tags often employ words with a dual meaning or strange acronyms that can lead to inappropriate content being associated with something innocent.

BE AWARE OF OVERSHARING

Tumblr is a public platform and anything that's shared on it can be viewed by anyone with a Tumblr account. It's important your child understands people they do not know could comment on what they share. You should remind your child not to share anything they would not be happy for everyone to see.

PROFILES AREN'T CLEAR

Due to the vague nature of the profile function on Tumblr, it's easy to remain quite anonymous. This means it's difficult for your children to be clear about whom they're interacting with. This increases the potential for cyber-bullying or grooming.

IT'S EASY TO POST 'FAKE NEWS'

It's easy for anyone to create and share information on Tumblr, whether it's true or not. Sometimes, this is done as a joke. Other times, it's done to be malicious or support an ideological or political agenda. It's important to understand your child could be exposed to this misinformation and take steps to encourage them to question it.

Top Tips to Protect Your Child

1 FILTER CONTENT

It's not possible to filter out all mentions of a potential harmful phrase, but you can filter out certain posts that are tagged with the phrase. You can do this in your account settings.

2 ACTIVATE SAFE MODE

You can turn on 'Safe Mode', which will hide sensitive content, however it's equally important to monitor your child. If you see their behaviour changing, calmly offer support and ask them if something is bothering them.

SAFE MODE

3 KEEP YOUR CHILD INFORMED

Encourage your child to seek alternative opinions and news stories and not rely on a single source for information, especially if it appears to be unsupported.

4 REPORT & BLOCK USERS

Show your child how to report and block specific content that is potentially harmful or upsetting. You can find details of how to on the 'Community Guidelines' page. Though blocking can be effective, you're only able to block a single post. To block a user, you must add them to the block list of each post.

5 RESPECT ORIGINAL CONTENT

It's easy to repost any content on Tumblr so it appears as your own. To avoid your child falling foul of any copyright or trademark infringements, make sure they understand the importance of citing the original author of anything they wish to share.

6 PROTECT THEIR PRIVACY

Check your child's Tumblr account settings to make sure they're hidden from all internal and external search engines. Turn off the autoplay function on all media and set it so only approved friends can message your child. Setting strong passwords and two-factor authentication will also make it especially difficult for anyone other than your child to access their Tumblr account.
