| Mathematics (including times tables) | I can apply my knowledge to solve missing number problems. | Use your '1 more, 1 less, 10 more, 10 less' skills to work out the missing numbers in the boxes on the sheet Missing numbers on the website. It might help if you copy out the boxes first then fill in the gaps. If you're stuck, use a number square to help you (you can find one on the website on Number square). When you complete the number lines at the bottom of the sheet, BE CAREFUL – not all of the number lines are counting in ones! Scroll down to the second sheet to see the answers and check your work (no peeking before you've finished!). |
| Writing | I can write imaginatively based on first-hand experience. | See page 2 for the 'Walt's Walk' writing activity. |

Walt's Walk

Hello! It's me, Walt. I got a bit bored sitting in the classroom so I went for a walk around the school. Guess where I went and what I did!

Write about where you think Walt went on his walk around school. Did he stay inside or go outside? What did he do in the places he visited? Use your imagination!
