Florence Nightingale

Florence Nightingale was born in 1820. She was interested in looking after sick people, so she decided to be a nurse.

During the Crimean War, she went to help the soldiers in the hospital at Scutari.

When she arrived in 1854, the hospital was filthy. The beds were crowded together and the blankets were dirty. The soldiers had no clean clothes and no-one looked after them or cleaned their wounds. More soldiers died from disease or infection than from their injuries.

Florence and her team of nurses cleaned the hospital and made the soldiers comfortable. Florence realised that it was important to keep their wounds clean. She became known as the Lady of the Lamp, because she visited the wards at night holding her lamp in front of her.

Florence returned to England at the end of the war in 1856. She became famous because of the good work she had done. She then set up a school for nurses at St Thomas' Hospital in London. This was the first nursing school in the world.
