

Monday 15th June

Read through the text 'A Birthday Surprise' and write down any words you don't know or understand.

Ask someone at home why and when they would use an email, when they would write a letter and when they would make a phonecall. Why do they choose the different types of communications?

Mail

Contacts

Calendar

 Inbox (93)

 Drafts

 Sent

 Spam (12)

 Trash

To: "Beth" <beth@talktalk.net>

CC:

Subject: A birthday surprise

Hi Beth,

Sanjay is eight on Saturday so we are having a party at my house at the weekend. I can't wait to see the look on his face when he walks through the door (ha ha!). Can you come at 1pm please?

I have already got a cake from Browns. He loves Manchester United, so you can guess what is on it.

We want to play some party games like musical chairs and pass the parcel, but my CD player is broken. I left it in the garden when it rained on Tuesday. Have you got one we can use?

It looks like the weather is going to be a fantastic on Saturday, so we can all play on the bouncy castle. It's huge so we can all have a go. Bring a hat and some sun cream.

If you want to bring some food for the party you can, but you don't need to, there's plenty. If you do, please make sure it does not contain egg. Remember what happened to me last time – I don't want to go to hospital again!

Dad is taking Woof to my uncle Alan's for the day. He barks a lot when there are lots of people around – Woof that is, not my dad.

Hope you can come.

See you soon,

Love Syrut

Send

Reply

Forward

Spam

Move

Read the information about online communications:

<https://www.bbc.co.uk/bitesize/topics/zv63d2p/articles/z9r72hv>